Georgia Southern University is an active member in the new North American Mobility Project, a groundbreaking partnership facilitating international education within the North American continent.

The North American Mobility Project was designed to enhance North American Studies Programs at member institutions through collaborative curriculum development and the creation of exchange opportunities for students wishing to study in Canada, Mexico, and the United States.

North American Mobility Scholarships are available for eligible candidates wishing to study on exchange at a participating institution for one or two semesters. Additionally, students wishing to improve their language skills while studying on exchange may apply for a language enhancement grant for Spanish or French.

For further information about these exchange programs and scholarship opportunities, please contact the Center for International Studies.
